Pavel Kouda, Vice-Governor of the Usti Region

Veronika Hiebl, Executive Director of Tourismusverband Erzgebirge e.V.

The European Union has supported the project that focuses on joint promotion of the Ore Mountains on both sides of the border. The joint promotion of the region without borders will help remove current information barriers and will support overall development of the Ore Mountains and the neighbouring area called Podkrušnohoří.

For many years this area has been trying to change its image, which is perceived rather negatively especially on the Czech side due to mining and historical devastation of environment. From a different point of view, you can see a unique area, which can offer incredible experiences to a visitor. The Ore Mountains hide a lot of amazing places, which are certainly worth seeing. The guide provides several tips for interesting outings that will help you understand the history and wild beauty of this area.

We believe that you will fall in love with the Ore Mountains and that you will be happy to come back again.

Did you know that...

- ...the Ore Mountains have the largest number of hills named Špičák?
- ...Kammweg (ridge trail) is the oldest trail – in German speaking countries and that it was open in 1904? It is the first inter-regional tourist route in Saxony, which received a certification from the German Tourist Association and it is one of the four certified routes in the Free State of Saxony.
- ...the legendary Sachsenring in Hohenstein-Ernstthal in the Ore Mountains belongs among the most modern cycling circles in Europe and that Moto GP racing are held here every year?
- ...The Day of Saxony in Freiberg is the largest folk festival in Saxony, and it is held during the second weekend in September in the city of Freiberg? For locals and for visitors alike, the city offers three great days of festivities – the celebration will take place in the historic city centre, on 17 stages and in many halls.
- ...bicycle races called Olbernhauer Radtour, Erzgebirgs-Bike Marathon and Drei-Talsperren Marathon attract cyclists to the Ore Mountains every year?
- ...the Wolf's Pit in Horní Blatná is an interesting natural monument, which holds snow even during a hot summer?
- ...the Ore Mountains spread from the southwest to the northeast over a distance of 130 km and therefore represent the longest mountain range in the Czech Republic?
- ...you may ride your bike through the entire ridge starting at Děčínský Sněžník on the east, going through Telnice, Cínovec, Fláje, Mount of St. Catherine, Mount St. Sebastian, Měděnec, Klínovec, Boží Dar, Pernink, Jelení, Bublava and Kraslice, all the way to the city of Cheb on the west?
- ...the landscape in the Ore Mountains was severely affected by harmful emissions in the past but surprisingly regenerated itself perfectly and recently became a „member“ of the Premier League of Czech tourist destinations offering a variety of ecosystems and vegetations and unique habitats for protected bird species?
- ...every year in July 22 a strike of miners takes place here, commemorating the first successful labour struggle of miners who used to work in the Ore Mountains during the Middle Ages? After the procession of miners is over – which passes through Neustädtel all the way to the mining Church of St. Wolfgang, a Mass service for miners is held here. And finally, at the end a festive concert is held at the city square.

1 NATURE TRAIL – BOŽÍ DAR PEAT-BOG

In the surrounding of the Boží dar peat-bog a nature trail was built, which is 3.2 km long and runs through one of the most precious sections of the nature park. It has 12 stops with information displays where you can read detailed information about the fauna and flora living in the peat-bog ecosystem. The biggest botanical attraction of the Boží dar peat-bog is a birch tree called Bříza zakrslá (Betula nana), which is a relic from the ice age. It differs from other types of birch trees because of its small size. Another typical flora of the peat-bog is a snake root called Rdesno, Zábělník bahenní, Viola bahenní, Kohoutek luční and many others. At the last stop in the Boží dar peat-bog you may join another popular nature trail called Blatenský trench, which is a unique technical sight.

2 CHURCH OF ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST IN ČESKÝ JIŘETÍN

The church in the border village of Český Jiřetín is the only all-wooden church in the Ore Mountains. The church was built in the second half of the 17th century in the village of Fláje where it remained until 1969. During the construction of the Fláje dam the church was the only saved structure in the flooded village and moved to the nearby Český Jiřetín. An interesting fact is that in 1999 the church bell tower was equipped with a bell which originally came from a church in the village of Klíny. Today, you may see an exhibition in the church, focusing on the history of border villages or you may visit a concert of children's choirs, which is held there before Christmas.

3 KOMÁŘÍ VÍŽKA (Mosquito Tower)

Old stone viewing towers hide a special charm. If you have enough time and desire to breathe fresh mountain air, we strongly recommend to take a trip to the viewing tower at Komářův vížka. The Komářův vížka viewing tower is located at Komářův hůrka (Komářův Peak), north of the city of Krupka, and it is the oldest viewing tower in the Ore Mountains. It was built in 1857 by Prince Clary Aldringer, an admirer of viewing towers. The viewing tower provided spectacular views for decades until the nineties of the 20th century, when new owners had the tower completely reconstructed, and the tower windows were bricked up. But do not despair as you may enjoy magnificent views from any place around the tower. If the weather is fine and the visibility is good, you may see as far as the peaks of the Krkonoše Mountains and you will also see the Czech Central Mountains as if they were at your fingertips.

You may take a cable chairlift to the Krupka viewing tower. The cable chairlift is the oldest and longest chairlift without any stops in the Czech Republic. This year in May, we celebrated its 60th anniversary. Underneath Komářův vížka you can take a guided tour through the Chapel of St. Wolfgang, which will teach you about the history of tin mining and will recommend additional attractions and tips for trips.
