

A detailed historical painting depicting a choir of men in 16th-century attire, including dark robes with large white ruffs and fur-trimmed hoods. They are gathered around a large, open book resting on a wooden stand. The book contains musical notation and Latin text, with visible words like "Propter", "O Bozini", "terris du", "vne", "tortu", "u", "ro", "oo", "A", "B". The men are looking at the book with varying expressions of concentration and interest. The background shows a stone wall and a window. The painting is framed by a decorative red and gold border on the left side.

”A NA KNIHY ČESKÝ...”

Zpěvníky teplického literátského bratrstva ze 16. století
10. 11. - 10. 12. 2006 / výstavní místnosti teplického zámku